

As you read the several columns and articles in this Annual Report about the Home and its ever expanding program of services , we trust you have been pleased if not impressed with the creative thinking and planning being used to move the Home into the future. . . to follow that “new course”.

The Foundation is also charting a new course! In 2010, the Foundation undertook a feasibility study in preparation for a capital campaign. That study, based on personal interviews with sixty significant existing or potential donors, determined three of seven tested projects were worthy of pursuit. Those projects were memory care units at Browning Masonic Community and Western Reserve Masonic Community and a skilled nursing facility at Springfield Masonic Community.

CHARTING THE COURSE FOR THE FUTURE

A decision was made that the memory care units would be the first consideration. Capital campaign fund raising counsel was retained at year's end with the direction to develop and launch a professionally managed campaign in 2011 to support the construction of those memory care units. We look forward to the successful results of that campaign. . .

the first in the Foundation's history and the first in the known history of the Home. . . and the ultimate opening of those important facilities.

Some have asked: “Why undertake such a campaign? Couldn't the Home just take some of its assets and build these units?” Well, yes we probably could. While many of the assets of the Home and Foundation are already committed to supporting various parts of our operation, the money to fund these projects could have been taken from existing resources. But doing so would limit us in consideration of other needs and opportunities now and in the near future. And, of course, capital campaign fundraising is the least expensive means of acquiring such resources and is the commonly accepted way to finance, at least in part, the building of not-for-profit health care facilities.

Such a campaign is also important and beneficial for several other reasons. First, it enables us to preserve existing assets, continuing their use for other important purposes in our organization. Second, it enables us to identify, cultivate and solicit previously unknown donors who find an affinity with our organization and its work and a sense of fulfillment in financially supporting such an important project. Third, it provides a platform by which we can raise public awareness of our two facilities and all their programs in their respective communities. And, finally, it helps establish our facilities as the trusted resource for information and education about Alzheimer's in their communities.

While recent years have seen the Foundation move toward more “project specific” fundraising with our Grand Master and First Lady-related programs and gift destination specific annual appeals, the pending capital campaign is charting a new course for us in capital fundraising. We welcome it as a new tool in our toolbox of fundraising programs/ techniques and trust that the volunteers recruited. . . those within and those outside the fraternity. . . will find it a rewarding experience and that the donors will find it personally fulfilling to truly make a difference in the lives of our residents and their families devastated by Alzheimer's.

We look forward to our journey on this new course and all the lessons we can learn from it as we continue to work together to advance the mission, legacy and future of The Ohio Masonic Home!

Right Worshipful Brother Timothy B. Strawn, 33°, CAE, President, The Ohio Masonic Home Benevolent Endowment Foundation
